From Saturday March 7, to Tuesday March 10, 1761.

Prince Ferdinand's Head Quarters at Grebenau, February 25.

ON the 23d we marched to this Town. Eight Battalions, under the Command of Major General Scheele, were detached from General Sporcken's Corps, to reinforce the Count of Buckeburg, and will arrive this Day at Fritzlar. We are in hourly Expectation of hearing, that the Trenches are opened before Caſſel, where there are ſeventeen Battalions, and the Volontiers of St. Victor, under the Command of the Count of Broglio.

When we arrived here, Lord Granby, with the Britiſh Guards, and Elliot's Regiment, was blockading Ziegenhayn, where M. de Luchmantel commands a Garriſon, ſaid to conſiſt of Seven Hundred Men. Lieutenant General Oheimb, who is under Lord Granby's Orders, is advanced to Kirchain.

Yeſterday his Lordſhip was relieved by Major General Schluter, of the Heſſian Artillery, who is charged with the Blockade of Ziegenhayn, and Lord Granby marched to Kirchain. In the Caſtle of Amaneburg, which is within Cannon Shot of it, a Party of two Officers, and fifty Men, belonging to the Iriſh Brigade, were made Priſoners.

Our Huſſars puſhed Yeſterday to Homburg, where there was a Detachment of the Enemy, who retired on ſeeing them; and the Officer writes, that all Accounts agree in ſaying, that M. de Broglio is making his Retreat to Frankfort.

The Hereditary Prince is at Schlitz. A Courier, who came from his Quarters the 23d, ſaid, it was reported there, that our Huſſars had taken Poſſeſſion of Fulda the Night before. This was confirmed the 24th, with the agreeable Intelligence, that the Enemy had left a very great Magazine of Flour and Oats untouched, and had only burnt their Magazine of Hay. General Luckner took 300 Priſoners in Fulda, and the neighbouring Villages, in moſt of which we have taken ſome Forage. In this Reſpect we have been extremely fortunate, having found in all our Cantonments hitherto, ſince we paſſed the Eder, enough for our Subſiſtance. To-morrow we ſhall proceed on our March to Alsfeldt.

The Army of the Empire, which was in the Neighbourhood of Gotha, when General Sporcken attacked the Enemy at Langen-Saltz, retired precipitately, and is ſuppoſed to have taken the Road to Bamberg. The Pruſſian Corps, which acted in Conjunction with General Sporcken, and which took Three of the Five Saxon Battalions, will check them in their Attempts to advance farther. A very large Magazine has been found at Eyſenach.

[Price Three-Pence.]

Hague, March 6. According to Accounts of the 25th paſt, from Prince Ferdinand's Army, his Serene Highneſs was to march the next Day to Alsfeldt, and the Hereditary Prince to Lauterbach. The Marqueſs of Granby was to attack the Town of Marbourg, in order to blockade the Caſtle.

The French Garriſon of Gottingen, except 300 Men, marched out from thence in the Night of the 23d paſt; but we have ſince heard, that they had returned thither, after having taken the Poſt of Duderſtadt.

We are informed, that ſome Troops of the Allied Army had poſted themſelves at Klein Linnes upon the Lahne, between Butzbach and Gieſſen, and were throwing Bridges over that River; and that another Corps of them was on the 28th at Laubach, in order to ſupport the Operations againſt Marbourg.

Our Accounts, from the Side of the French, ſay, That Marſhal Broglio had his Head Quarters, on the 26th paſt, at Marienborn; on the 27th at Friedberg; the 28th at Vilben and Bergen: That there ſeemed to be no Hopes among the French of making Head againſt Prince Ferdinand, as they had none of their large Field Artillery. In the mean Time, they are employed in ſtrengthening the Poſts at Vilben and Bergen, and have thrown Bridges over the Mayn, above Hanau, at Seligenſtadt, and at Aſchaffenbourg.
